

buttons at the top that brings you to my social media pages the travel and intineraries buttons will need to be a drop down menu that bring you to the USA or Europe sections this will be a carosel of images with titles that bring you to the featured article, was thinking of featuring 4 articles series of pictures about myself the read more will need to be a button that takes you the the about page this area is done in flex box the center is just an image that I will alter and re upload when I am in a different country between the footer is where i want to add the instagram plug in (not put in the design yet) will need to put a subscribe button at the bottom for the email updates that I send out should I also put some copywrite info down here?

not sure where
the best place
to put the back
button is?

still editing this description a
little more!

just a list of
travel goals i
want to accomplish

eventually the
footer will be the same on all
the pages

Hi I'm Sarah! Solo traveling is a new endeavor for me, but something that I quickly became extremely passionate about. Traveling was not something I was always interested in, for as long as I can remember I always wanted to move to Los Angeles and work in the fashion industry. When I moved out to LA I quickly got an amazing job that anyone would kill to have. When working in the fashion industry i feel like you need to live and breathe it deep in your soul. For some reason working in the industry I dreamt about for so many years made me fall out of love with it. I slowly became less materialistic and didn't put as much effort into how I looked anymore. Something about it just didn't feel right, I knew that where I was at in my career was never going to get any better, and I didn't want it anymore and wasn't happy. I wanted a break from life and especially Los Angeles. So i quit my job, packed up my stuff and went to Europe alone for 3 months. The trip really crept up on me and I didn't have any time to second guess myself or get nervous. The longest amount of time I have traveled alone before was maybe 4 days! Well that 3 month trip turned into a 4 and half month trip and then a U.S roadtrip. After that I was hooked, I had the best time of my life! I knew I had to make this travel lifestyle into my career.

everyone always asks me "dont you get scared or lonely being by yourself?" and the answer is simply no. When I travel solo I'm never really "alone". I am constatly meeting new people in my hostel, on a walking tour, or at restaurants. I now have friends that live all over the world! So many people tell me that they think I'm incredibly brave for traveling the world by myself, but I dont really see it that way. If I want to go somewhere cool and my friends can't and I just supposed to not go? If i waited for a friends to do anything and everything with me I would probably never leave me house. Personally, I have always embraced change and had the confidence to put myself out there and talk to new people. If you don't then Solo traveling should absolutely be something for you to try. You are completely forced out of your comfort zone! The best part? No one knows you, you get a completely fresh start and get to be whoever you want to be and put your best foot forward.
